

The last-minute holiday gadget gift guide

By Jason Hidalgo | jhidalgo@rgj.com | FILED UNDER - BIZ / Technology | 4:25 PM, Dec. 21, 2013

THE GADGET GIFT GUIDE

Last-minute heroics helped turn Michael Jordan and Magic Johnson into basketball legends. Things aren't quite so glamorous, however, when it comes to last-minute gift shopping. If you're stumped about what presents to offer the gadget lover in your life, here are some potential options to get that gift-giving ball rolling.

- >
- 1
- 2
- 3
- 4
- 5
- 6
- 7
- 8
- 9
- 10

Auggie Dog Pooper Scooper

Plastic bags too low tech for your tastes? Well, here's an option for scooping that nasty doggie doo in a more decidedly high-tech fashion. This sucker literally sucks up droppings for later ejection. It also comes with a built-in mini flashlight and dog beeper, as well as an environmentally friendly cleaning solution. Admittedly, this will be overkill for a lot of folks. Cleaning the Auggie Dog itself also can be a pain at times and buying the cleaning solution can add up. For environmentally-conscious gadget geeks, though, it's worth a look. Cost: $149.99